Q. Friends in Seattle tell me that John Ehrlichman, convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Watergate scandal, has sold his novel. Is it true? Can you provide any details?—Frank Lewis, Portland, Oreg.

A. John Ehrlichman's novel, tentatively entitled "The Commissioner," has been accepted for publication by Simon & Schuster. Ehrlichman's novel is disguised autobiography, deals with his White House years under Richard Nixon.

Reportedly Ehrlichman received a $30,000 advance.
