

Course on Watergate Post 8/22/74

A course on the effects of Watergate on the presidency is being offered this fall by the University College of the University of Maryland at College Park.

The three-credit course will be taught by Donald Smith, 33, White House correspondent for Congressional Quarterly. The course, government and politics 475, "Watergate, Impeachment and the Crisis of the Executive," will meet Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. beginning September 10 in the new undergraduate library. For further information, call 454-5735.