Connally's Trial
To Begin April 1

U.S. District Court Chief Justice George L. Hart Jr. yesterday set April 1 as the date to start the bribery trial of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Hart's move postponed the trial about a week.

Hart also refused to reconsider his ruling that the trial will be solely on two bribery counts against Connally, with charges of perjury against Connally to be considered at a later trial. He also said that the defendant and the prosecution had agreed that the jury in the Connally case need not be sequestered during the trial.
