Three business executives have given a total of more than $400,000 to the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, on the basis of incomplete reports available yesterday.

The contributors are: Ray A. Kroc, chairman and chief executive officer of the McDonald's hamburger chain, $149,000; W. T. Duncan, a Bryan, Tex., land developer and banker who had given $300,000 earlier this year to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential drive, $144,000; and Foster G. McGaw of Evanston, Ill., honorary chairman of the American Hospital Supply Co., $118,902.

In other campaign-financing developments:

- McGovern for President, Inc., the Democratic presidential candidate's principal committee, disclosed that as of Aug. 31—with $9,678 in cash on hand—it owed $1,943,497 in loans. The principal lenders and the sums outstanding:

- Two committees of the United Automobile Workers, $180,000; Communications Workers of America, AFL-CIO,

FUNDS, From A1

$100,000; Machinists Non-Partisan Political League, $100,000; Morris Dees Jr., a Montgomery, Ala., lawyer, $142,500; John L. Tishman, New York City realty executive, $125,000; Robert and Harry Meyerhoff, Baltimore real estate developers, $90,000; Stewart R. Mott, philanthropist, heir to a General Motors fortune, $90,000, and Larry and Barbra Ann Weinberg of Los Angeles, $47,500 each

- The National Republican Senatorial Committee said it had a cash balance of $319,715 on Aug. 31 after spending $482,664 since June 1; The Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee had cash on hand of $93,005 after spending $21,101 since April 7, when the Federal Elections Campaign Act became effective.

The three leading givers to President Nixon's committees were listed in reports filed with the General Accounting Office by the three principal national affiliates of the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President and 30 of its state-wide affiliates. The GAO has yet to process reports from additional state units. All of the reports cover periods of varying duration starting on or after April 7 and ending Aug. 31.

The reports for the four national units and the 30 state affiliates list among other large donors:

- A. E. Johnson of Denver, a retired oil man, $76,000;
- Evan P. Helfaer of Milwaukee, retired, $58,883;
- Anthony T. Rossi of Bradenton, Fla., president of Tropicana Products, $48,000;
- Joseph Segel, president of the Franklin Mint, Inc., Franklin Center, Pa., $30,902;
- M. B. Sereteau of Chattanooga, president of Coronet Industries in Dalton, Ga., $28,933.

Substantial contributions were reported from executives of two suburban Virginia building demolition companies. Said Haddad, chairman of ABC Demolition Co., was listed for $12,000, and the firm's president, Frank B. Kaufman, for $1,250. Leopold Lamar, president of Hercules Demolition Co. in Alexandria, was listed for $4,000.

Loans aside, one of the largest single contributors to the campaign of Sen. George McGovern may prove to be Alejandro Zaffaroni of Palo Alto, Calif., a contraceptive developer and head of a research firm. He has told reporters that he has given about $225,000.
