

Lesar phoned to ask if I'd seen the nasty Times story on Bud out of LA, alleging he fixed the testimony of a witness back in 1965, when he was with the Senate. I hadn't and I don't believe and I think, as I tried to tell the legal eagles, this is only the beginning. It will have as long a history as lack of proper and vigorous reaction permits. It seems odd -the reason I write- that this story about Washington and the midWest, originates in Los Angeles. Maybe some with with so-called knowledge is there, but I'd rather be suspicious than not long enough to find out. If you can figure anything out when you see the story, appreciate hearing. The reporter's name was not a familiar one to me....I've heard of the lie-detector tests by Bailey and Alch. Today's WxPost no story. I'd like to see but nobody is likely to see the questions. He can easily pass one based on excerpts from his testimony because he addressed the irrelevant and about the irrelevant he didn't lie. By now those characters have learned how to work with the machine and its operators. What nobody has noted is that Colson also "passed" such a test. HW 5/28/73
