Dear Harold:

Just a note in haste to acknowledge the bad news about the waif. We appreciate your feelings and the good advice you have given her. I find her letter pretty incoherent and come out of it with little understanding of what is supposed to have happened.

At this writing, it appears that the committed plans to wind things up without calling Hunt. Can you think of anyone who could be influenced in any way to remedy this? Looks like a real fix has been arranged.

Best,
