

The language of these memos rather than reflecting the "optimism" Heston attributed to them, leave no doubt that there had not been any Nixon "recommending" of the approved plan for official domestic spying for Nixon. If there had been any formal Presidential action there would have been no point in any such memos or suggestion.