

Senator Tunney. You don't know whether he coached any of the witnesses Mr. Gray. No, I wouldn't even have asked him if he coached any of the witnesses, and we didn't.

Senator Tunney. But considering the fact that he had probably more information than anyone else, other than the FBI, and inasmuch as he seems to have almost as much information at times as you did, at least he had prior information with regard to Hunt, wouldn't it have been a normal question to ask Mr. Dean if he was interviewing the witnesses before the FBI interviewed them?

Mr. Gray. No, sir, because Mr. Dean had zero information at the beginning and he stayed that way for a long period of time. ...

Senator Tunney. As of the 19th he had an awful lot of information on Mr. Hunt?

Mr. Gray. I don't know what he had.

Senator Tunney. He had the materials he turned over to you.

Mr. Gray. That is right, and you can look at the inventories there and they are not that great, the materials listed there.

Senator Tunney. There was bugging equipment, wasn't there?

Mr. Gray. Oh, yes, that was there. ...

Senator Tunney. As of the 19th you knew Mr. Hunt had electronic equipment that was pretty extensive. So he may not have had as much information as you had, but he had a fair amount of information. Do you think maybe the reason he asked to sit in on those interviews was because of the fact he had gone through the safe and found out what was in it?

Mr. Gray. No, I don't think so, sir. ...
