

In The Meaning of Treason Rebecca West wrote perceptively of those who gravitate to the world of the clandestine, of the secret operators like Hunt and Liddy ~~that~~ that "the life of the political conspirator offers the man of restricted capacity but ~~of~~ imaginative energy ~~the~~ greater excitement and satisfaction than he can ever derive from over activities."