

Littauer & Wilkinson

My undereducated Italian ~~Italian~~ restaurant waiter has completed the simple thing I suggested to Bob Woodward and when he didn't do it, to Joe Volz of the Star, neither of whom did it. Nor did the Miami Herald reporter who got the L & W name from Who's Who. In brief, this is it:

Littauer died. I didn't make notes because he is sending me xeroxes. When he died Wilkinson moved the business to his own home and, as of the current LMP, is listed as an agent, Maxwell Wilkinson & Associates. No associates are listed.

He checked back to 1966 and there is no name listed besides L & W and no office in Washington ever listed.

Wilkinson, obviously, is still ^{the} Hunt's agent. At the very least he was also Hunt's drop and, for Hunt to be able to depend upon it, had to know or there had to be some special arrangement.

I gave him the name and address of the Lucius Littauer Foundation and I asked him to check the New York Times annual indexes for Littauer (Lucius) death to see who survived and send me a xerox. It was a CIA foundation.
