

Dear Jim, it is a joy and at this time of crisis a comfort to know that the press Nixon so assails, the same press that says how brave it is, is really on the job. After Art Kevin phoned me to tell me he had learned more than I told him on speaking to Jawowski's partner, I phoned the national desk of the WxPost, which is handling the story now. The new guy there was excited for indeed, he does know a story. Well, in five hours no callback. The metro desk gave them the story several days ago. As of yesterday Sussman was surprised I'd not heard. I didn't expect more, but I felt that with the paper on strike there would be more time to check and follow up. Because I didn't really expect to hear from the Post and was doing what I regarded as a duty, after an hour I called the Star. You know, the competition, the Journalistic Avis? Well, that guy on that national desk though it is a great stroy, too. His one question: would I be home Monday (which is two days from now)? I told him I would be. HW 11/3/73
