Article II of Constitution
Gives Power to Pardon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Presidential power to grant pardons is expressed in the Constitution in Article II, Section 2.

The provision says:

"He shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment."

Article II delineates the power of the President, and includes both the oath to "faithfully execute the Office" and the admonition that "he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed."
