

Concern of Big Nixon Donor
Charged on Insurance Deal

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 16 (UPI)—A company headed by W. Clement Stone, who contributed more than $2-million to President Nixon's re-election campaign, was charged by the Florida insurance commissioner, Tom O'Malley, today with violating a state insurance law.

Mr. O'Malley's office denied there was any attempt to strike out at Mr. Nixon and said the connection with the President was only "coincidental" to the case.

Mr. O'Malley charged the Combined Insurance Company of America, which Mr. Stone heads, and one other company, Continental Casualty, with hiring the Carte Blanche Corporation as an agent to sell insurance in Florida.

Carte Blanche was charged with violating state law by not having a Florida insurance agent's license when it mailed solicitations for the two companies to Florida residents.
