On Sept. 26, President Kennedy's plans for a visit to Dallas were announced. ^{? OCT. 15?} A few days later, Oswald got a job at the Texas school book repository as a temporary warehouse worker. The man who hired him,

R.S. Truly, said:

"He was a pretty quiet individual. His work was fine and I had no reason to believe -- no idea the man had ever been in Russia. He was very quiet with nice manners and a nice appearance.

On Oct. 14, with just a satchel and a few clothes on coathangers in his possession Oswald rented an $8 a week room from Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Johnson on Dallas' North ~~xxx~~ Beekley Street.
