BODKINS' ODDS: Barnaby Conrad, bank-rolled by Millionaire Gordon McLendon, is putting together a 30-minute TV film on the Kennedy assassination, using the flopped-still technique that worked so well in "Death of Manolete." Among Barnaby's finds in Dallas: The only known photo of Oswald being arrested in the Texas Theater . . . Add Conradiana: The eight-yr-old Santa Monica restaurant called The San Francisco is no more. Its new owners, Peter Charell and Barney Warren, have changed the name to Barnaby's because they admire him more than our city, and so it goes . . . A French journalist at Enrico's, talking about the French revolution: "We know how it started, just began growing of its own accord — that anybody can explain it." Ar... we have the same thing in
