

C.I.A. (A)
HOUSE SPY STUDY VIEWED BY MANY

JUL 23 1976

Panel Aide Denies Giving Secret Report to Schorr
NYTimes

WASHINGTON, July 22 (UPI)

—The staff director of the House Select Committee on Intelligence testified today that unauthorized persons from the White House, among many others, had access to the supposedly secret intelligence report that eventually was made available to the press.

"I know of friends in the White House who had absolutely nothing to do with intelligence who saw it," A. Searle Field told House investigators trying to determine who turned over the report to Daniel Schorr, the television reporter.

"Who were they?" John Marshal, counsel, asked Mr. Field at the ethics committee hearing.

"I'll tell you in executive session, Mr. Field replied.

Mr. Field, who directed the staff of the now-defunct intelligence panel, was the 11th witness to testify in the final phase of the four-month, $150,000 ethics committee inquiry. He said he had not made the report available and did not know who had done so.

In another matter, the ethics committee has voted to reprimand Representative Robert L. F. Sikes, Democrat of Florida, on two of three major complaints filed against him, alleging use of his office for personal gain, Congressional sources said.

They said the panel voted, 10 to 2 yesterday, with Representatives F. Edward Heert and Olin E. Teague, both Democrats, casting the dissenting votes. The report carrying the committee recommendations will remain secret until it is filed with the House clerk and will probably will go to the House floor next week.

The reprimands were the lightest action the panel, whose name is the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, could take against the longtime lawmaker, short of clearing him of any wrongdoing. They were based on complaints that he failed to disclose his stock in Airchild Industries, a major defense contractor, and his financial interest in the First Nav Bank at the Pensacola Naval Air Station.

The intelligence committee earlier this year completed its investigation of Central Intelligence Agency covert activities with a report filled with classified information and severely critical of United States spying operations. The House voted to keep the report secret until President Ford could censor it.

Mr. Schorr got a copy from a source he has refused to identify and gave it to a New York newspaper, the Village Voice, which published much of it.

Mr. Field made his comment about White House personnel to illustrate his assertion, which was supported by several previous witnesses, that copies of the report circulated throughout Washington and could have reached Mr. Schorr in many ways.

He said that he suspected the disclosure had not come from the committee but from someone in the executive branch and possibly the C.I.A. itself.

COOL, GREEN, CAMP, KIDS
SUPPORT THE FRESH AIR FUND