

Exotic Life as Agent

MYSTERY DEATH HIDES STUDENT'S TIES TO CIA

by Stuart H. Loory
Times Staff Writer

(Story on S. Avrea Ingram Jr. "At noon on Feb. 5, 1957, a maid opened the door to Room 19 in the hotel [Irving Hotel, New York] and found Ingram lying nude on the floor with a leather belt around his neck attached to the knob of a desk drawer. The New York medical examiner called the death 'asphyxia by hanging' and said the indications were suicide." Clipping incomplete; filed CIA II.)