Deputy Intelligence Chief
For Bonn Commits Suicide
BONN, Oct. 9 (AP)—The deputy chief of West Germany's secret Federal Intelligence Service, Maj. Gen. Horst Wendland, has committed suicide, Government sources said tonight.

Apparently because of the nature of the agency's work, the Government made no official announcement.

Authoritative sources said that General Wendland, 58 years old, had shot himself yesterday in his office near Munch. They declared that he had suffered from an "incurable depressive illness" and that his death was not connected with security matters.
