Previously had said she working for a New Orleans firm in summer of 1963 when a man using name sounding like Hidell some times bought a panel truck, became deadbeat on his payments, took a lot of checking to track him down and on three occasions she reached his home. The phone was answered by woman with French or Spanish accent. She thought it was Oswald because she saw a picture of man named Haydell later in papers and he wasn't the man who bought the tires. She told FBI after the JFK killing but never heard from them afterward. Doesn't know whether they were able to check purchase order against Oswald's handwriting. Hasn't been with company, which not named, for some time. AP A49nu Gavzer 23feb67
