New Orleans, March 17 (AP)- The Warren Commission Report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy got the back of the hand today from a three-judge state panel.

"This report is fraught with heresy," said Judge Bernard Bagert, in barring the report from evidence in the Kennedy assassination conspiracy hearing.

"If we are going to accept the Warren Commission Report as being factual, we have wasted a whole week of time," he added.

In dissenting, Judge Malcolm V. O'Hara said the thought the 26-volume report would be "admissible for what it's worth"-- not as evidence, but merely as an official document.

O'Hara's opinion also was the defense argument.

"The defense is entitled to have the Warren report in the record for what it stands for and what it's worth," argued William Wegmann, one of Clay L. Shaw's defense lawyers.

The court can decide the report is worthless, Wegmann said, but state law requires that the court admit official records of government into evidence for consideration.

"The state statute was not intended to cover such a situation," ruled Bagert. "To say that the report is heresy is putting it mildly. At points it is hearsay four or five times removed."

The report named Lee Harvey Oswald, a former New Orleans resident, as the man who shot President Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

There was no credible evidence of any one else being involved, the report added. Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends there was a conspiracy, with several men involved.

The defense effort to introduce the Warren Commission Report was its final action before ending its arguments.

The judges ruled that Shaw, a wealthy retired executive, should be held for trial on charges of conspiring to murder the President.
