Prober Resigns, Raps JFK Quiz

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — William H. Gurvich quit today as chief investigator for District Attorney Jim Garrison and said Garrison's case against Clay Shaw should be dropped.

Garrison has charged Shaw, retired New Orleans businessman, with conspiracy to murder President Kennedy.

Gurvich went to the district attorney's office and tried to see Garrison. He was physically barred by Louis A. Ivon, an investigator.

Gurvich says he has "grave misgivings" about Garrison's inquiry into Kennedy's assassination and wants the district attorney to review the probe in a new light.

He telephoned the district attorney's office and announced his resignation today after failing to see Garrison.

Gurvich, who also heads a private detective agency, served as Garrison's chief investigator during the early months of the investigation.

It was he who announced Shaw's arrest on March 8.

Garrison says Gurvich has not been involved in the probe for several weeks.
