LOS ANGELES AP - Edgar Eugene Bradley surrendered Wednesday to face charges that he conspired to kill President John F. Kennedy.

"I know I'm not guilty of any crime," Bradley said after his arraignment, "God knows I'm not guilty. That's the important thing."

Municipal Judge David J. Aisensohn ordered Bradley released on his own recognizance and granted a 30-day continuance during which Louisiana could initiate the extradition that Bradley's attorney says he will fight.

Bradley, 49, of North Hollywood is charged by New Orleans Dist. Atty. James Garrison in connection with what Garrison has called a right-wing plot to assassinate Kennedy.

He has denied any prior knowledge that Kennedy would be killed, saying he was on a bus from Oklahoma to El Paso, Tex., when the assassination occurred.

Bradley told newsmen he first learned of Garrison's accusation when his 19-year-old son received a phone call from a newspaper reporter. He said he thought it was a crank call but later learned he had been charged in connection with the assassination.

Accompanied by his attorney, George Jensen, Bradley surrendered at the office of Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter Pitchess on a fugitive warrant obtained by Garrison in New Orleans.

"I will fight extradition tooth and nail," Jensen said, "I will not let him go to Louisiana."

The final decision on whether Bradley will be extradited lies with California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Bradley is West Coast representative of Dr. Carl McIntire, of Collingswood, N.J., president of the American Council of Churches and an evangelistic radio broadcaster from New Jersey.

Garrison has said that Bradley worked in 1964 in a movement to get presidential support in California for FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Bradley said Wednesday he did participate in such a movement but dropped it after receiving little public support.

Bradley is the second man charged by Garrison with conspiracy in the 1963 assassination of Kennedy in Dallas. New Orleans businessman Clay Shaw is under indictment on charges of conspiracy to commit murder.

Bradley's attorney suggested Wednesday that Garrison may have made the charges against Bradley "in order to be able to continue the Shaw case." He predicted that Garrison would ask for a continuance of Shaw's trial.

Bradley, a slightly built blond-haired man, said he is not concerned about the possibility of being convicted.

"I think the people who should be concerned at this point are those who may have committed perjury or those who have apparently conspired to frame me," he said. "Those are the ones who should be worried because that is a criminal offense."
