According to Garrison, Kimble reported that on the day after the death of David Ferrie, one of Garrison's suspects in the alleged Kennedy assassination plot, he drove Helm to Ferrie's apartment. Helm then came out with a satchel full of papers which, Kimble says, the KKK official then placed in a bank safe deposit box.

At this stage of his investigation Garrison refuses to say whether he has located the safe deposit box or recovered its mysterious contents.

However, aides of the district attorney are stating that he has the key and that the box's contents will be revealed during next month's trial of Clay Shaw, the New Orleans businessman charged with being involved in a Kennedy assassination conspiracy.

Garrison is also probing an allegation by Kimble that Walter Sheridan, the former Justice Department troubleshooter for then Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, once enticed him not to talk to anyone and to go to Canada.

The former congressional employe who furnished information to Garrison has interested congressional probes as Harold Weisberg, author of books on the Kennedy assassination attacking the Warren Commission, the FBI and CIA.

According to records of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Weisberg is the same man who testified in 1940 before a House subcommittee in an attempt to link the Dies committee to the Silver Shirts.

At that time the Silver Shirts was a militant right-wing organization on the attorney general's subversive list. The documents were used in an abortive attempt by a Michigan congressman to smear the Dies committee, forerunner of the present House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The records of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee also show that Weisberg was dropped from the staff of the late Sen. LaFollette's Special Investigating subcommittee for allegedly leaking confidential

...beautifully, both sides were reluctant witnesses in past congressional investigations not related to the Kennedy assassination.

The KKK official involved in Garrison's investigation is Jack M. Helm.

Garrison's investigation of New Orleans KKK activities was reported in the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Testimony was presented during the hearing by a committee of the KKK. At the rally Helm stated: "No congressional investigation will ever deteriorate this [KKK] organization. We'll still be here when they are dead and buried—and I hope it will be soon."

Garrison began his probe of Helm on a tip from Jules Rocco Kimble, a self-avowed member of the KKK, who also claimed he once worked special assignments for the CIA. This the CIA denies and Garrison claims he will prove.

Garrison is also probing an allegation of Kimble that Walter Sheridan, the former Justice Department trouble-shooter for then Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy, once counseled him not to talk to anyone and to go to Canada.

The former congressional employee whose furnishing of information to Garrison has interested congressional probes is Harold Weisberg, author of books on the Kennedy assassination attacking the Warren Commission, the FBI and CIA.

According to records of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Weisberg is the same man who testified before the House in 1954 that he bought forged documents to be given to Link the Dies Committee.

At that time the Soviet Shirts was a well-known New York magazine and the documents were used in an abusive attack by a Michigan congressman to lead the Dies Committee forerunner of the present House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The records of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee also show that Weisberg was dropped from the roll of the Senate Judiciary Special Investigating Subcommittee for allegedly lying to the subcommittee in 1954.

Weisberg, whose latest book carries a foreword by Garrison, has appeared several times before the New Orleans grand jury being used by the district attorney for his inquiry. In his publications Weisberg contends that Lee Harvey Oswald, accused Kennedy assassin, was trained by an impersonator.

The congressional probes are now checking Weisberg's long-time contacts with the Central Intelligence Agency and State Department, including several persons who transferred to those agencies from the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) after World War II.

REP. ROMAN PUCINSKI, liberal Democrat from Illinois, charged recently that federal programs for upgrading education in poverty areas have been a failure despite an outlay of nearly $1 billion. "There is growing evidence," he said, "that for the most part Title I programs have been a disappointing failure in many communities of our country."
