

Kennedy Rules Out a Draft Designed to Stop Wallace

NYTimes JUN 27 1975
Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Democrat of Massachusetts, says the possibility of a George C. Wallace nomination is not enough to make him change his noncandidate status, United Press International reported.

In a television interview Wednesday on CBS with Walter Cronkite, Mr. Kennedy repeated his intention not to be a Presidential candidate in 1976 and ruled out accepting a draft to stop the Alabama Governor.

"The answer would be no," Mr. Kennedy said. "I don't believe so. But beyond that, I don't believe that those circumstances would arise."

Asked if that meant he "could accept a Wallace candidacy," Mr. Kennedy replied, "No, it does not. I've indicated I would not support a ticket with Mr. Wallace on it."

"But you wouldn't go so far as to be a candidate to stop it?" Mr. Cronkite asked.

"That's right," Mr. Kennedy answered.
