RATIONAL 15¢
ENQUIRER

• Vol. 42, No. 47, July 28, 1968

L.A. Police Withhold Evidence

6 Suspects Seen Fleeing RFK Assassination Scene

SIRHAN SIRHAN

By WILLIAM DICK

Three prominent Los Angeles men have told The ENQUIRER they are convinced there was more than one man involved in the Robert F. Kennedy assassination — and that they saw some of the other plotters escaping immediately after the fatal shooting.

According to their information:

A frantic-looking young man rushed out of the front door of the Embassy Room, the ballroom at the Ambassador Hotel, seconds after Senator Kennedy was shot.

He was carrying something wrapped in a paper under his arm, and was followed by men shouting "Stop that man! Stop that man!" The young man began running and was lost in the crowds and confusion.

Also, four other young men came out of the front door of the ballroom carrying a fifth, who looked as if he had been wounded. They all vanished into the crowd outside the ballroom.

the ballroom.

The witnesses who saw these men were a physician, Dr. Fred Parrott; Samuel A. Strain, manager of the Samuel A. Strain Insurance Co.; and Marcus S. W. McBroom, Ph.D., director of family and professional services for the California Human Development Center. Center

Dr. McBroom, who also is associated with The Institute for Creative Living, did not see associated with The Institute for Creative Living, did not see the four men carrying the fifth "wounded" man out.

But in an interview shortly after the shooting, he said:

"I had a distinct impression there were two assassins. One seemed to have run out just ahead of me and he was seen by some of the news people and one of my friends."

He later identified this friend to The ENQUIRER as Strain. Questioned about this by an ENQUIRER reporter, Strain said he was standing outside the front door to the ballroom in the hotel with a physician friend immediately after Kennedy made his victory speech. He said:

"Suddenly, a little fellow, about 5 feet 3, with dark hair, Caucasian, ran out. He had a bulky object in his right hand, wrapped in black paper.

"I couldn't see what it was. The paper was about 24 inches long. The man wore black horn-rimmed glasses, black pants, a blue turtleneck sweater."

(Strain's account of the package-carrying young man took on added significance three days later when Los Angeles city fireman Harold L. Burba told the Los Angeles County Grand Jury that indicted Sirhan for murder that Sirhan was carrying a similar object just moments before the shooting.

(Burba, who was in the hotel that night.

object just moments be ing.

(Burba, who was in the hotel that night, told the jury he had observed the man later identified as Sirhan following the Kennedy party into the passageway which led to a serving kitchen and then to a temporary press room.

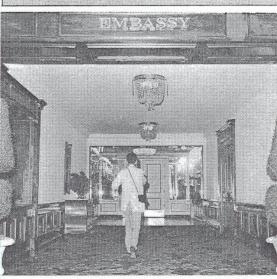

(His testimony on this point, during examination by the jury foreman, was as follows:

(Q: When this person passed by, he had something in his hand, or hands?

(A: Yes sir. (Q: Could you de-

ACCUSED ASSASSIN caught by police was Sirhan Sirhan (center), but six other men were seen running away.

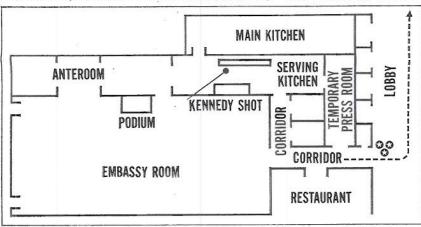

ssassinat

A. Police Withhold Evidence

That Sirhan Was Not Alone in

MURDER SCENE EXIT: Corridor leading from ball-room door (rear of photo) was crowded, but three wit-nesses claim they saw six men push through to the out-side immediately after the shooting.

DEATH DIAGRAM: Layout of Ambassador Hotel's ballroom and surrounding shows path (dotted line) taken by six fleeing men. They were seen by three rel witnesses, Dr. McBroom, Samuel Strain and Dr. Parrott (represented by stars).

McBroom,

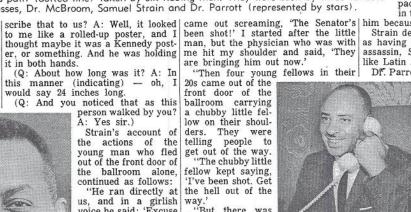

service saw a small man escape.

director,

WITNESS

"He ran directly at us, and in a girlish voice he said: 'Excuse me please, excuse me please,' in an excited way.

"We thought he had stolen something.
"As he went by, three men with cameras ran from the ballroom yelling 'Stop that man!' At that time, we did not know there had been a shooting. A girl

WITNESS Strain saw the six men who fled the as-sassination scene. He said all were dark-haired like were carried into the ballroom to be treated.

to be treated.

"It was my opinion that there was some kind of a decoy here. Because when I got outside later I asked about the men who went out, and someone said all of them jumped into a car and said, 'Let's get the hell out of here.'

"It might be a shrewd thing—four men carrying out one man who said he was shot, but I don't know. If it's true, it would mean seven people could have been involved.

"I think it is a conspiracy of

"I think it is a conspiracy of some kind, at this point." Strain, a Kennedy supporter but with no official connection but with no official connection with the Kennedy organization, also said that a woman he spoke to told him she had also seen the young man with the package (not Sirhan) earlier in the evening. She had noticed him because he was acting strangely. Strain described the five young men as having dark hair like the accused assassin, Sirhan Sirhan, and looking like Latin Americans.

Df. Parrott. who was with Strain and ssassin, Sirhan Sirhan, and looking ike Latin Americans.

Df. Parrott, who was with Strain and some other friends, said he first knew about the attack on Kennedy when Dr. McBroom ran up to them saying the Senator had been shot and needed help. Dr. Parrott said:

"We tried to get inside the ballroom but the guard would not let us in. He was being pushed and shoved and was apparently trying to carry out his job. However, I understand that while we were trying to get in, Dr. Ross Miller managed to do so and worked his way in to help the wounded."

"I never did get inside the ballroom to help.
"But I did see a young man with glassy eyes pushing past us saying 'Excuse me, excuse me.' (Continued on next page)

RFK Assassination

(Continued from preceding page) His eyes appeared dilated, as if he had been under the influence of some drug. been under the influence of some drug. And he carried something wrapped in a paper under his arm.

"He was a young man, dark complexion, and polite. Then he broke and ran.

"Just then some of the Kennedy campaign aides came out of the ball-room yelling, 'Stop that man! Stop that man!

"Another strange incident occurred. I saw about four or five young men carrying out another one on their shoulders, as if he had been wounded. I don't know if he had been shot — I didn't see any blood.

"They all vanished into the crowd." Although the three men gave their information to police, none of them was called before the grand jury which met on June 7.

Their stories indicated enough plotters were involved in strategically in position to be able to get an open shot at Kennedy no matter which way he left the ballroom — through the crowds in front of him or through back shot at Kennedy no matter which way his side, minutes before death struck.

people.

"The news photographers and others | when he walked off the platform. He | "It made him happy, this close crowds in front of him or through back | were expecting him to go to the left apparently felt his wife would be able communication."

rooms and kitchen.

It is believed that the grand jury was not given the evidence because officials wanted to bring a strong, uncomplicated nciais wanted to all strong, uncomplicated case against Sirhan in seeking the indictment against him.

Police arrested 20 persons after the shooting but all have been released

but an have been released.

Dr. McBroom also told
The ENQUIRER that the reason Senator Kennedy
cut short his victory speech and left by way of the kitchen was because Ethel Kennedy was feeling faint and he himself was fatigued after a long day. Dr. McBroom said:

"Apparently to spare
his wife from the crowd,
the Senator went off through the doors to the kitchen passageway.

LAST SPEECH by Robert Kennedy was made in ball-room of the Ambassador hotel, with wife Ethel at his side, minutes before death struck.

LOS ANGELL

Ambassailor boto

to get away from the crush by taking that way. "He was concerned with his wife's health and safety and secondly, security was another consideration.

"Some of his aides had been urging him to take more precautions.

more precautions.
"Several weeks before,"
said Dr. McBroom, "I was with Kennedy's group as he walked through a large crowd in Los Angeles and I told him I feared for his safety. "With a

"With a smile, Senator Kennedy told me: 'You, my wife, and my family. I've got to let the people know I am not the cold, ruthless one am not the cold, ruthless one some people have tried to paint me."

"My feeling was that Senator Kennedy was an extremely shy man, but he was carrying out a family tradition by getting close to people."

13111

Dr. Renatus Hartogs, chief psychiatrist of the Juvenile Center in New York City, is the only psychiatrist ever to have examined Lee Harvey Oswald, the assassin of President John F. Kennedy. Dr. Hartogs warned that Oswald was "explosively dangerous" in 1953 when, at age 13, Oswald was arrested for truancy.

Here, exclusively for The ENQUIRER, Dr. Hartogs analyzes Oswald and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, held as the assassin of the President's brother, Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Lee Harvey Oswald and Sirhan Bishara Sirhan vere two of a kind: Mental misfits with twisted notions of doing something that would make them great.

That's the judgment of Dr. Rena-tus Hartogs, the psychiatrist who examined Oswald in 1953 — 10 years before he shot and killed President John F. Kennedy.

Dr. Hartogs pointed out nine distinct similarities between Oswald and Sirhan, the man under arrest as the accused assassin of Senator Robert F. Kennedy:

- · Both were loners.

- both killings.
- Both turned away from people to
- Both turned away from people to animals.
 Neither man could convince others he was as brilliant as he secretly believed himself to be.

lieved himself to be.

• Both had confused, love-hate feelings for the Kennedys.

"Oswald and Sirhan were lonely, cut off from other people, rejected," the psychiatrist noted. This does not mean, however, that they could not have been involved with others in a plot.

"Their violence was turned on by political issues, which they took up not so much from real political convictions, but as an outlet for their inner conflicts."

Dr. Hartogs, chief psychiatrist of inner conflicts."

Dr. Hartogs, chief psychiatrist of the Juvenile Center in New York City, noted the parallel in their home lives: Ke "Sirhan's rigid, severe mother resem-ly

"Also, both always expected disappointments in their strong ambitions, their fantasy-like dreams of powerful positions of superiority — which they could not achieve in real life."

life."
On their admiration for Hitler, the doctor suggested: "They saw in him a man who, personified the strength and power they were unable to achieve. And by identifying with him, they both hoped to be able to resemble him in power.

in power.
"There were elements of revenge in both killings: Sirhan really class of 16, but he was unwilling to identified himself with his powerful, accept this evidence of his lack of punishing father. In killing Robert Kennedy, also a father, he symbolically killed his own father, whom he time. Sirhan was seventh in a Sirhan was seventh in a class of 16, but he was unwilling to be identified by his evidence of his lack of brilliance.

"Both sought reassurance all the time. Sirhan asked his father, 'Am I

Both were loners.
 Both were violently ambitious individuals with deep doubts about their masculinity.
 They had similar surroundings and influences at home.
 Both were bitterly sensitive about real or imagined rejection.
 Both admired Adolf Hitler.
 There were elements of revenge in both killings.
 There were elements of revenge in their interior strong ambitions.
 There were loners.
 Oswald's Mother PSYCHIATRIST Dr. Hartogs holds photos of two men he studied — Sirhan and Oswald. bles Oswald's mother to a striking and influences at home.
 Both were bitterly sensitive about treal or imagined rejection.
 There were elements of revenge in their strong ambitions.
 An additional parallel noted by Dr. Hartogs was that both men turned ties of both made it all the more like.

An additional parallel noted by Dr. Hartogs was that both men turned away from humans, to become fascinated by animals. "Oswald cut school classes in New York to sit outside cages in the Bronx Zoo. Sirhan abandoned his dreams of being a 'great man' to go to work as a stable boy. Both showed a singular inability to get along with people."

Dr. Hartogs felt both men were frustrated in their efforts to make others recognize them as brilliant.

recognize them as brilliant.

Sirhan was seventh in a but he was unwilling to evidence of his lack of

The emotionally isolated personalities of both made it all the more likely that they should pick as victims men who gave evidence of masculine powers, the doctors said.

"Through elimination of John and Robert Kennedy — men with sexual as well as social power — Oswald and Sirhan symbolically put themselves above the Kennedys.

Dr. Hartogs was chief psychiatrist above the Kennedys.

Dr. Hartogs was chief psychiatrist at New York City Youth House when he questioned Oswald, then 13.

In a report on May 1, 1953, he said of Oswald: "Lee has to be seen as an emotionally quite disturbed youngster who suffers emotional isolation and deprivation; lack of affection, absence of family life and rejection by a self-involved mother."

At the time, he warned that Oswald was "explosively dangerous."

— HARRY ALTSHULER

Sirhan's Father

