

26 September 1970

Dear Hal:

After you left the other day, I wrote to Weisberg enclosing that tearsheet you asked me to forward. He has sent a note back, returning the tearsheet and saying only: "Tearsheet: news to me. I wonder if someone has ~~replaced Raven Rock~~ misplaced Raven Rock, Pa., in Virginia." Anyway, here it is.

He also sent a copy of a letter he had written to Paul after hearing from you, and, I presume, us. In any case he asked us to forward the copy to you. Sorry to have been slow about this; we've been under the weather and working a split trick to boot.

Not much else going on. From the N6 States-Item: Pery Russo was picked up and charged with burglary, later reduced to a charge of stolen goods. Some nut in one of the Carolinas is supposed to have threatened to kill the DA, no indication why. Also, the campaign against Judge Haggerty is grinding slowly along. Nothing else.

Hope you made it to Europe, or, if not, that you got the whole thing straightened out to your satisfaction.

We'll see you,

jdw
