

Notes on People by Albin Krebs

Preparing for her visit to Peking next February, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon started studying Chinese a week ago and says she hopes to be able "to greet the people in Chinese" when she arrives there. She's having trouble boning up on China by reading books, she said, because "it's changing, so the books are out of date."