McGOVERN SUPPORTERS ought not to be discouraged by the polls; Richard Nixon has enormous tendencies toward self-destruction. What's going on now in all the media is the building of the bandwagon psychology the Nixon people are counting on — and with good reason.

It is always astonishing to me how many voters seek not to express their choice but to choose the likely winner, as though they were buying tickets on a horse race.

You would think that the important thing on the day after the election was to have the winning bumper strip. If you are for McGovern, forget everything else and vote your choice. It is really the only way you won't waste your vote.
