

Julie Says Nixon Trying to Run Everything Alone

Washington

Julie Nixon Eisenhower said yesterday that the President is "trying to run everything himself now" as a result of Watergate and that crucial information was kept from him by top White House aides.

"We can all learn from Watergate," the President's daughter said. "Presidents will be more anxious to know what's going on now."

"I can't really condemn the fact that my father didn't know," she hastily added.

Mr. Nixon's former campaign manager, John Mitchell, said in testimony before the Senate Watergate committee that he withheld the facts of the Watergate break-in from Mr. Nixon out of fear that it would cost him re-election.
