

SFChronicle

★ ★ ★

MAY 13 1974

SCOOP DU JOUR: Even King Timahoe has turned his back on President Nixon! This startling information comes from the bright young people at Earth News, who report that aniseed, a substance that dogs go ape over, is now applied to Mr. Nixon's pants legs whenever he and Timahoe are on display together. Thus attracted, the dog bounds forward and nuzzles the President, but otherwise, it's a case of hunkering down alone.

Herb Caen column

From review of book about White House dogs ("Dog Days at the White House," by Traphes Bryant), this file 11 Aug '75:

"[Nixon's] relationship with [King Timahoe was a revealing one, and a little sad. As Mr. Bryant writes, describing the President's return from a trip: 'Tim ran to everybody but the President. It was funny, but the President was really hurt. He winced.'"