

PERSONALITIES

Moving Up at The Saturday Evening Post

Julie Nixon Eisenhower has been promoted by Curtis Publishing Co. from associate editor to assistant managing editor of The Saturday Evening Post.

A book of her favorite stories for children will soon be published and she is at work on a cookbook.

Dr. Cory Servaas, co-publisher with her husband of Curtis Publishing, says that Julie Eisenhower "has a great future with Curtis."

"She is an outstanding young journalist. All during the Watergate proceedings, Julie never missed a day working at her office in Washington and spending two days a week in Indianapolis at company headquarters."

SCLC Awards

Frank Wills, the security guard who discovered the break-in of the Watergate headquarters of the Democratic National Committee two years ago, was among the award winners at the Southern Christian Leadership Conference banquet in Philadelphia.

Wills, 26, now unemployed, got the highest honor of the evening, the Martin Luther King Award.

Also honored were actress

Cicely Tyson, C. Peter McCulough, chairman of Xerox Corp. and Robert D. Wood, president of CBS. They were honored for their TV production of "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman." The banquet was the highlight of the four-day 17th annual SCLC convention which opened Tuesday.

Shirley Leaves

About 1,500 people try to see actress Shirley Lane's show, "If Could See Me Now," left disappointed in the Hall in N

Maclaine was reported to have walked off when something went wrong with the sound system.

On Tuesday night, the city manager told the audience "Tonight everything is but we haven't got a run through s

San Francisco
Unionist r
he p