Laird Refused '69 Fulbright Request For the Pentagon Study on Vietnam

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, June 16-Eighteen months abo, in a letter Many of the contributions to Senator J. W. Fulbright, the this total document were prosecretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, described a secret Pentapressed guarantee of confident pressed guarantee of confident matter, Mr. Fulbright wrote in Laird, described a secret Penta-gon study of American involve-tiality." ment in Vietnam as a "compilation of raw materials to be used at some unspecified, but dis tant, future date."

est might be jeopardized. Mr. to executive branch activities be clearly contrary to the na-Laird contended that the mate-in Vietnam for any portion of tional interest to disseminate rial was sensitive because conthe period covered by this comthe compendium more widely," tributors to the study had been pendium." Last April 30, Senator Fulguaranteed confidentiality.

to melike he thought it was a historical document."

States." He emphasized, in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, that he thought it served no useful purpose to make public sensitive information.

Stress on Senstivity

In his 1969 letter to Mr. Fulbright, the Defense Secretary similarly stressed the sensitivity of the subject rather than its potential impact on national security.

He said the study had been commissioned in 1967 by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

"It was conceived as a compilation of raw materials to be used at some unspecficied, but distant, future date," the letter said. "On the basis of the understanding that access and use would be restricted, the documentswere designed to contain an accumulation of data of the most delicate sensitivity, including N.S.C. [NNational Security Council] papers and other Presidential communications which have always been considered privileged.

"In addition, the papers included a variety of internal letter, on Jan. 19, 1970, the advice and comments central Senator urged that Mr. Laird to the decision-making process. reconsider his refusal to pro-Eighteen months abo, in a letter Many of the contributions to vide the material.

Access Highly Limited

Mr. Laird's letter continued: response was. "As intended from the start, Mr. Laird declined in the let-access to and use of this docuter to give the study to the ment has been extremely "My letter of Dec. 20, 1969, Senate Foreign Relations Com-limited. It would clearly be indicated that access to and use mittee, which Mr. Fulbright contrary to the national heads. The Secretary said that to do so "would clearly be con-trary to the national interest." The letter offered no specific reason why the national inter-est might be ignoradized Mr. to executive branch activities be clearly contrary to the na-

Mr. Freidheim said today Mr. Firedheim said that he what the letter says."

Along with the letter says."

Along with the letter says."

to melike he thought it was a historical document."

The Justice Department obtained a Federal Court order yesterday, temporarily halting publication of parts of the Pentagon study in The New York made public. It was part of a quated March 24, 1909, in which series of written exchanges between Senator Fulbright and Secretary Laird that was inpossible with Congressional requests for information" unless, record by Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri following the hearing Monday made public. It was part of a quated March 24, 1909, in which series of written exchanges between Complete and in the committee's quests for information" unless, "in the most compelling circumington of Missouri following the hearing Monday." hearing Monday.

April and again in July of last year to ask what Mr. Laird's

On July 21, 1970, Mr. Laird

Last April 30, Senator Fulbright again asked for the study The Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, declined today to expand on the meantoday to expand on the meanat that time." The are thought lege is being invoked by the ing of Mr. Laird's remarks in at that time." The spokesman President" as authority for the letter, dated Dec. 20, 1969. for the Secretary said that he withholding the study and other assumed that Secretary Laird has stated "what he means" in the letter and that "it sounds to melike be thought it was assumed that sounds to melike be thought it was assumed that "it sounds to melike be thought it was assumed that "it sounds the correspondence had been of a Presidential memorandum made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the melike be thought it was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the means are the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. It was part of a dated March 24, 1969, in which the correspondence had been made public. invoke executive privilege. Even Secretary Laird said Monday that publication of the documents "violated the security regulations of the United States" In another Presidential approval."

6-17-71 NYT