

A Morning Lineup For Trial Seats

Spectators at the trial yesterday, virtually every one a zealous supporter of the 28-year-old defendant, began gathering outside the courtroom at 2:15 a.m. to ensure themselves a seat during the finale of the legal drama.

Those who arrived at the gate after 4:30 a.m. had no chance of getting one of the 25 seats available to the public in the small courtroom.

Only about one-third of the 80 spectators who waited through the chilly dawn were able to get a seat for the morning session.
