

Notes on People James F. Clarity

NYTimes SEP 2 1972

Arthur H. Bremer, who was convicted of shooting Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, was transferred to the print shop of the Maryland Penitentiary. The warden, Gerald H. McClellan, was asked if Bremer, who kept a diary of his travels, intentions and aspirations, would be allowed to print them in prison. "There are a lot of authors down there," the warden said of the prison print shop.