Tapes - Buzhardt replies to letter from Cox (see entry 11 Jun): "The tape to which the President referred in his discussion with Mr. Petersen was a tape on which the President dictated his own recollections of that conversation after it was finished. It would, of course, not be appropriate to produce that tape."

Ziegler is asked about this (no date), "Was there a dictabelt on the 15th or was there not?" Ziegler: "There was not."

Nixon (pre-Presidential papers) - "Frank DeMarco Jr. ... on instructions from the White House, consented to an interview [for which no date is given] to tell the circumstances of a gift of pre-presidential Nixon papers that were valued at $570,000 for tax purposes. .... Officials at the [National] Archives had raised questions about the gift because the deed was not delivered until April, 1970, was not signed by the President, and has never been formally accepted by the archives in the traditional written document. The key issue concerning the legality of the gift was transacted in proper form by July 25, 1969."

See story for DeMarco's chronology, contradiction by appraiser, Ralph Newman, etc.
