

The Major Events of the Day

International
Nixon Administration officials disclosed that Secretary of State Kissinger, without informing Congress, made at least two secret arrangements with Soviet leaders in 1972 on the number of strategic missiles on each side. The failure to notify Congress may be a violation of the Arms Control and Disarmament Act of 1961. [1:1.]
Jewish activists were reportedly rounded up in Moscow by Soviet authorities in an apparent attempt to forestall any demonstrations during President Nixon's visit to the Soviet Union next week. More than 30 people, some of them well-known scientists, were arrested in Moscow and other Soviet cities. Jewish sources said. [1:2-3.]
Strikes by hundreds of thousands of British workers disrupted production at numerous companies, including the British Leyland Motor Corporation and the General Electric Company, as the Government reported another big increase in retail prices for May. Workers are seeking wage increases to offset the rise in the cost of living. [1:2.]
A series of defeats in Parliament for Britain's three-month-old Labor Government appears to have renewed speculation about the date of a new general election. Most politicians predict that the next voting will be in late September or early October. [7:1-3.]

National
Charles W. Colson, a former close Presidential aide who pleaded guilty June 3 to a felony count of obstruction of justice, was sentenced to one to three years in prison. He told Judge Gerhard A. Gesell in the Federal District Court in Washington that President Nixon had urged him "on numerous occasions" to commit the acts for which he was being jailed. [1:7-8.]
Members of the House Judiciary Committee said that Mr. Colson's courtroom statement implicating President Nixon in possible obstruction of justice made it imperative to call Mr. Colson as a witness at impeachment hearings. [15:4.]
The Watergate special prosecution decided that at least 26 persons, ranging from President Nixon to the Watergate burglars, conspired to cover up the Watergate break-in, a number of sources said. Seven of the alleged conspirators have been indicted. Yesterday, the sources said, the prosecution gave defense counsel in the coverup case a list of 19 unindicted co-conspirators. [14:5-8.]

In legal briefs filed with the Supreme Court, President Nixon's Watergate lawyers accused the Watergate special prosecutor, Leon Jaworski, of interweaving the Watergate criminal prosecutions and Congressional impeachment proceedings in a way that was "manifestly unfair" to Mr. Nixon. [1:5-6.]
The Federal Power Commission authorized a large increase in the ceiling price of natural gas sold in interstate commerce on the ground that a "national energy emergency" exists and will continue. The new national ceiling of 42 cents a thousand cubic feet, plus a cent-a-year escalation, unless blocked by the courts, will bring about a gradual, cumulative rise in the average cost of gas to interstate pipelines, local distribution companies and consumers. [1:4.]
The Labor Department reported consumer prices resumed their rapid rise last month after some moderation in April. Food prices, except meat, rose and the Consumer Price Index climbed 1.1 per cent both before and after adjustment for normal seasonal changes in some prices. [1:6.]

Metropolitan
A police helicopter carrying Mayor Beame and two aides was forced down off the South Brooklyn Shore in a thunderstorm that swept the metropolitan area. No one was hurt. Mr. Beame was on his way to Kennedy International Airport for a trip to San Diego. His flight was delayed as were many other things, and people, because of the storm. [11:2-5.]
John J. Egan, the former commanding officer of a special investigations unit of the Police Department's narcotics bureau, was convicted by a Federal District Court jury of falsifying his 1970 income tax return. He was acquitted of filing a false 1969 return, and the jury reported that it could not agree on the three remaining counts of an indictment charging him with conspiracy, extortion and evasion of $22,324 in taxes. [1:4.]
A 3.5 per cent decline in the retail price area last month was offset by a 8.2 per cent rise in the cost of produce and substantial increases in the cost of other goods and services, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. The average rise in the cost of living was 1.1 per cent. [27:4-6.]
