The Major Events of the Day

International

The "strengthening of universal peace" was pledged in Moscow by President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet leader. Mr. Nixon was warmly welcomed as he arrived for his third summit meeting with Mr. Brezhnev. A dinner was given for Mr. Nixon in the Great Kremlin Palace, and in an exchange of toasts he and Mr. Brezhnev expressed hope that significant progress could be made in the control of nuclear weapons. Mr. Brezhnev spoke out against critics of détente in the United States. [1:8.]

France and Iran signed in Paris a massive 10-year, $4-billion development agreement. It included a provision for the sale to Iran of five 1,000-megawatt nuclear reactors worth $1.1-billion. The agreement will make France Iran's principal industrial partner and is expected to greatly ease France's balance-of-payments problem provoked by spiraling oil prices. [1:1-3.]

National

Announcing its sixth major price increase for its 1974 models, the Chrysler Corporation said it was acting to keep up with the rising price of steel. Effective July 1, Chrysler cars will average $60 higher in price—about $49 on the basic price and $11 for options. [1:7.]

Vincent de Roulet, a former Ambassador to Jamaica, apparently received an "express commitment" of a more attractive embassy in return for a $100,000 campaign contribution to President Nixon and other Republican candidates, a Senate panel has been told. Herbert W. Kainbach, who was President Nixon's personal lawyer, made assurances of a reassignment to Mr. de Roulet, who subsequently fulfilled the $100,000 pledge, according to a draft report of the Senate Watergate committee. [1:5-6.]

President Nixon's lawyers began their rebuttal to evidence gathered by impeachment inquiry lawyers. James D. St. Clair, Mr. Nixon's chief defense lawyer, cited sworn testimony by John W. Dean 3d in an attempt to convince the House Judiciary Committee that the President had committed no wrongdoing that would justify impeachment. [1:4.] Members of the House Judiciary Committee said that they believed the wounds from Mr. Dean's partisan

Quotation of the Day

"The whole affirmative action system by which it is determined whether a university is underutilizing women and blacks in tenured positions should not really apply in choosing a medieval historian. It is a statistical system that deals more with the hiring of typists, bricklayers or punch press operators."—Dr. Richard A. Lester, author of a report on the hiring of women and blacks published under the sponsorship of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education. [1:5.]
