The Major Events of the Day

International
 "All civil rights have been restored," said Parayotis Lambrias, Under Secretary for Press and Information, as Greece took a major step in restoring democratic government by reinvoking the Constitution that had been in force before the military coup of 1967. However, the provisions of the Constitution relating to the monarchy were temporarily suspended. [1:1.]

The Central Intelligence Agency has reportedly been instructed by top officials of the Nixon Administration not to interfere in the internal affairs of Greece nor to play favorites among Greek politicians. The orders were said to reflect current policies of Secretary of State Kissinger and of the Director of Central Intelligence, William E. Colby—that Americans should keep out of politics of countries as much as possible. The CIA is said to have been deeply involved in Greek politics for 25 years. [1:2-3.]

The Security Council adopted a resolution that enables the United Nations peace force on Cyprus to take on expanded duties under the new Geneva agreement. Twelve of the 15 Council's members voted for the resolution. The Soviet Union and Yugoslavia abstained, and China did not participate in the vote. [1:2-3.]

Metropolitan

Controler Harrison J. Goldin telephoned from London, where he is vacationing, and charged that the city's Investigation Commissioner, Nicholas Scopetta, had "instructed" a civil servant in the Controller's office to make entries in the Controller's books that were not there when Mr. Goldin's auditor's examined them. Mr. Scopetta denounced the charge. "It's the most outrageous, baseless thing I've ever heard anyone in public life make," he said. [1:6-7.]

Thick, yellow smoke from an electrical fire forced 2,000 passengers out of a subway train and up the stairs at the Wall Street station and the IRT Lexington Avenue line in the morning rush hour. Twenty-eight persons were treated for smoke inhalation. The cause of the fire was not immediately determined. A spokesman for the Transit Authority verified passengers' accounts of an explosion in the tunnel between the Wall Street and Bowling Green stations. [1:5.]

Governor Byrne of New Jersey conferred with his aides on ways to deal with the indictment by a state grand jury of J. Edward Crabiel, the New Jersey Secretary of State, on highway construction bid-rigging charges. The immediate problem facing the Governor is that he cannot summarily dismiss or suspend the Secretary of State, who holds office for the term of the Governor and not "at the pleasure of the Governor," as do other cabinet members, except for the Attorney General. But the Governor may persuade Mr. Crabiel to resign or take a leave of absence. [3:1-3.]

National

The leadership of the House tentatively decided that Representatives would start to debate the impeachment of President Nixon on Aug. 19 and permit television coverage through the final vote at the end of the month. The head of the Rules Committee, said that the House would probably be operating under a rule that would prohibit the adding of further articles of impeachment to the three voted by the House Judiciary Committee but would allow some revision. [1:8.]

Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's largest dairy cooperative, was fined the maximum of $35,000 after pleading guilty to a six-count criminal information alleging that it conspired and willfully made illegal campaign contributions in 1968, 1970 and 1972. [1:6-7.]

"Concentrated industries"—those dominated by a few companies—will be the particular target of an "intensive review" in an investigation of price-fixing and other anticompetitive practices by major national industries. Republican members of the House
