

The Major Events of the Day

International
 Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger warned Turkey against using her military superiority to drive the new Greek Government "into a corner." In the toughest diplomatic language used thus far by Washington in the Cyprus crisis, he said that Turkey had gone beyond what any of her friends or sympathizers were prepared to accept in the military advance in Cyprus. His comments also seemed intended to undercut widespread charges that the United States was "tilting" toward Turkey. [1:8.]

The Greek Cypriote Government estimates that the Turkish army now controls 40 per cent of Cyprus, and that 200,000 Greek Cypriotes have been driven from their homes by the war. Despite the cease-fire declared last Friday evening, fighting has continued well south of the line that was assumed would mark the Turkish area. [1:6-7.]

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda printed new denunciations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and accused it of "open aggression" in Cyprus. It was the bluntest charge yet in a Soviet press campaign to depict the war in Cyprus as a result of intervention by NATO. [3:1-3.]

The Israeli police arrested Archbishop Hilarion Capucci, head of the Greek Catholic Church in Jerusalem, and charged him with smuggling weapons and explosives to Palestinian guerrillas operating on the occupied West Bank. The Archbishop, who reportedly had been under police surveillance since last year, was said to be the undercover liaison between Al Fatah, the largest of the Palestinian guerrilla organizations, and West Bank guerrilla cells. [2:4-8.]

National

President Ford told reporters on his way to the golf course that he will choose a Vice President tomorrow. He said that he would have "good advisers" on the golf course on that decision. This was taken as a clue by politicians and others. One of Mr. Ford's golfing partners was Melvin R. Laird, an old friend, who has been supporting Nelson A. Rockefeller. [1:5.]

President Ford's intimate friends include several of Washington's most powerful corporate lobbyists, some of whom are helping to shape his Administration. One of his friends is Rodney W. Markley Jr., the Ford

The Other News

International
 Saigon's military courts gain dominant role. Page 1
 Sadat and Qaddafi seek to settle rift. Page 2
 Ford and Hussein to seek troop accord. Page 2
 Turks say Greek Cypriote troops murdered. Page 3
 Kissinger's role in Cyprus crisis criticized. Page 3
 Ethiopian church protests military's plans. Page 6
 Soviet border negotiator returns from China. Page 8
 Brazilian lawyers call for legalization of divorce. Page 8
 U.S. evangelist defends South Korean arrests. Page 9
 19 terrorists escape from Irish jail. Page 10
 India's presidency: Pomp or power? Page 10
 Communist courts in Vietnam snatched by military. Page 12

Government and Politics
 Mandel and Mathias face unusual opposition. Page 11
 Senator Long renominated in Louisiana primary. Page 17
 Samuels and Carey trade campaign charges. Page 18
 Racial nuances get into job picture at City Hall. Page 23

General
 Time running out for Bristol clockmaker. Page 13
 Half in Gallup survey want controls back. Page 16
 Soap Box Derby shows effects of scandal. Page 17
 Apartment towers rising on W. 42d St. Page 27
 New housing may upgrade the Clinton area. Page 27
 Belated tribute is paid here to Scott Joplin. Page 28
 Metro Briefs. Page 29
 Forest Park rail spur opponents dismayed. Page 29
 100 enter, 100 watch bocce contest here. Page 29
 Garage attendant murdered in foiling robbery. Page 29
 Girl's slayer believed familiar with killing site. Page 29
 Indians' lawyers ask curbs on marshals. Page 36

Quotation of the Day

"I'm more politician than I am actor. I'm more politician than I am writer. I'm more politician than I am lawyer."—Former Mayor John V. Lindsay, returning to New York after an eight-month vacation. [1:1.]

Blast on Coast is termed not a bombing. Page 42
 Baptism issue reflects split over abortion. Page 43

Religion
 Episcopal leader quits post in protest. Page 42

Amusements and the Arts
 New novel by Mark Dimenfass reviewed. Page 23
 London, like Broadway, loses its darning. Page 32
 Piston is honored at the MacDowell Colony. Page 32
 Pearl Primus shapes African dance jewel. Page 33
 Beautiful Bronx is cry of loop riders. Page 33

Going Out Guide Page 33
About New York Page 31

Family/Style
 Summer camp caters to pets from the hot city. Page 30
 Alcohol is a problem among adolescents. Page 30

Obituaries
 Kriender funeral service attended by 1,500. Page 28

Business and Financial
 International banking activity curtailed. Page 37
 Amoskeag president seeking railroad merger. Page 37
 New figures used to gauge U.S. economy. Page 37
 Retailers cautious on buying for fall. Page 37

Man in the News
 J. F. TerHorst, White House press secretary. Page 16

Editorials and Comment
 Editorials and Letters. Page 24
 William Safire asks presumption of innocence. Page 25
 German cuisine appraised by two writers. Page 25
 George McGovern offers plan on food production. Page 25

News Analysis
 Eileen Shanahan discusses the inflation fight. Page 16