

The Major Events of the Day

International
 The Turkish Government is organizing a major relief and development program for the Turkish-occupied sector of Cyprus whose economic life has been seriously disrupted by the war. The Turkish-Cypriote minority was economically dependent on the more prosperous Greek-Cypriote sector, where many Turkish-Cypriote workers were employed, largely as day laborers, and where Turkish-Cypriote farmers sold much of their produce and livestock. [3:5-6.]

National
 Dry weather in the Middle West and consequently smaller crops means that food prices will continue to rise in the second half of this year instead of leveling off as had been expected, the Agriculture Department predicted. It now projects an increase of 3 to 4 per cent in average consumer food prices from the beginning of July to the end of December, but the increase would be only half the amount in the first six months of the year. [1:8.]

Roy L. Ash, one of President Ford's economic advisers, hinted broadly that the Government would not be able to balance the budget in the next year without reducing future benefits in some social programs legislated long ago. Mr. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, spoke at a business luncheon in New York. [1:6-7.]

Pan American World Airways, declaring that it would have to increase borrowings by October to pay its bills, formally appealed to the Government for an emergency $10-million-a-month subsidy "to stave off the imminent financial crises" resulting from increasing fuel prices and declining passenger travel. It asked for payments retroactive to April 3. [1:5.]

Philip W. Buchen, President Ford's legal counsel, agreed to permit aides of former President Nixon, who have been indicted in the Watergate cover-up case, to examine personal files that had been sequestered by the Nixon Administration. Soon after the decision was announced, H. R. Haldeman, who was Mr. Nixon's White House chief of staff, entered a guarded room in the Executive Office Building, next to the White House to examine his files. [1:1.]

Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller answered many questions at a news conference at his summer home in Seal Harbor, Me. One of the questions was how he felt about "amnesty" for former President Nixon. He replied that he agreed with Senator Hugh Scott that "he's been hung, and it doesn't seem to me that, in addition, he should be drawn and quartered." On the subject of the financial disclosures he must make to Congress, he said that he had been assured by the Congressional committee to which he is making available detailed information that it will release none of it unless he agrees. [1:2-3.]

The Other News

George M. Steinbrenner 3d, the first corporate executive to be charged with a felony in the special Watergate prosecutor's investigation of campaign financing, pleaded guilty to two federal charges arising from the illegal expenditure of thousands of dollars in company funds for Democratic and Republican political campaigns. He is chairman of the American Shipbuilding Company and a major owner of the New York Yankees. In addition, American Shipbuilding pleaded guilty to violations of the campaign contribution laws. [1:1.]

United States marshals arrested and jailed two defense attorneys and used a disabling chemical Mace to remove several spectators from the Federal courtroom at the 7½-month-old Wounded Knee trial in St. Paul. Tension in the long trial exploded as the defense cross-examined a Government witness. [1:4.]

Metropolitan
 The State Labor Department issued figures that show unemployment was worsening in New York to what some economists would call recession levels, while in the nation generally, joblessness was comparatively stable, up to 5.3 per cent in July from 5.2 per cent in June. Unemployment in the city rose sharply from June to July, to 7.5 per cent from 6.8 per cent. In New York State, the rise was to 6.7 per cent from 6.1 per cent. Louis L. Levine, the State Industrial Commissioner, said the New York situation was due to "economic stagnation." [1:7.]

At the request of District Attorney Richard H. Kun, the State Supreme Court dismissed the controversial case against William A. Maynard, who spent six and a half years in prison fighting charges that he shot a Marine sergeant to death in Greenwich Village in 1967. [1:6-8.]

Quotation of the Day

"I don't know why not. I don't know what it is, but I'll find out."—Nelson A. Rockefeller, asked if he would accept the Vice-Presidential salary. [1:3-1.]

Education and Welfare

$115 a day sought for Board of Education panel. Page 27
 Engineering lags as a field of study. Page 28

Health and Science

Auto makers help addicts among workers. Page 20
 Ex-Willowbrook patients endure new neglect. Page 27

Amusements and the Arts

Film Institute accepts resignation of dean. Page 20
 Peter Serkin chamber group at Fisher Hall. Page 21
 Two museums hold refreshing shows. Page 22
 Three books on U.S. in Vietnam are reviewed. Page 23

Going Out Guide

Family/Style
 Equal Rights Amendment may be in trouble. Page 12
 Where the wineries get their grapes. Page 12
 Store opens chemise boutique. Page 12

Business and Financial

Stock prices skid below 700 Dow level. Page 31
 Pan Am's decline began with order for 747's. Page 31
 Car sales return to downward trend. Page 31
 West German bank closing makes 4 recently. Page 31
 Hearing urged on utility stock sales. Page 31
 Chain stores' sales rose 10.7 per cent in July. Page 31
 Allegany discusses tender for MSL stock. Page 31

Grolier posts net loss in quarter.

Patents: Device for cerebral palsy victims. Page 31
 People and Business: IMF growth opposed. Page 38

Exchange

Amer. Exchange	36	Market Average	32
Bond Sales	35	Market	32
Business Briefs	35	Money	37
Dividends	38	Mutual Funds	37
Over-the-Counter	35	N.Y. Stock Exchange	35
Grains	38	Out-of-Town	35
		Over the Counter	37

Sports

People in Sports: Iowa State five picks coach. Page 14
 Ziegler cards second 67 in row at Westchester. Page 15
 Rain can't keep golfers from appointed rounds. Page 15
 Mets pitch Madaack against Braves at Atlanta. Page 15
 Yanks playing well but can't gain on Red Sox. Page 15
 Namath status uncertain as St. Louis weather. Page 15
 Ruffian sets stakes record in Saratoga victory. Page 15
 Connors, Metreveli gain at South Orange net. Page 15
 Southern Cross, Courageous have good days. Page 15
 Sneed's arm, knee have date with Stealers. Page 16
 Amateur ties Miss Washam at 67 for golf lead. Page 17
 Women's breast-stroke record is broken. Page 18
 Montgomery paces A.A.U. swim qualifiers. Page 18

Notes on People

Man in the News
 Adm. William Lukash, the President's doctor. Page 13

Editorials and Comment

Editorials and Letters. Page 24
 Russell Baker: The reconciliation blues. Page 25
 C. L. Sulzberger: The Turkey-U.S. opium dispute. Page 25
 Consuelo Saah Baehr: Husband and wife. Page 25
 Dan Myers: Libya and Uganda—a wedding? Page 25
 Tabitha M. Powledge: Dangerous research. Page 25

CORRECTION

An article in The New York Times on Thursday incorrectly referred to the "de-mise of the Dallas Symphony." The orchestra was forced to cancel part of last season's scheduled concerts because of financial difficulties, but has now resumed its activities.