The Major Events of the Day

International

Opposition members of the Indian Parliament, in a special session that was called for a vote on it, condemned the state of emergency declared by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi on June 26. They protested the failing of their colleagues in the opposition, the censorship of the press, and the suspension of civil liberties. But Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party and its supporters have majorities in both houses, and with dozens of the opposition in jail, the Government's control of the proceedings was firm. A vote on the emergency declaration was expected today. [Page 1, Column 1.]

The Soyuz astronauts landed safely on the steppes of Soviet Central Asia, successfully completing their rendezvous in space with the American Apollo astronauts. The landing took place on schedule at 1:51 P.M. Moscow time (6:51 A.M., Eastern daylight time) 34 miles northeast of Arkalyk in Central Kazakhstan. Col. Aleksei A. Leonov and Valery N. Kubasov were described by Soviet space officials as feeling fine. Colonel Leonov said the flight was "hard, very hard." [1:1-2.]

Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn accused President Ford of participating in "the betrayal of Eastern Europe" with his announced decision to attend the 35-nation European summit meeting in Helsinki next week, and said that he could see no point in meeting with Mr. Ford. [1:1-2.]

The marriage intentions of Christina Onassis, 25-year-old daughter of the late Aristotle Onassis and his principal heir, were disclosed by a relative. Miss Onassis reportedly will marry Alexander Andreadis, the youngest son of a Greek shipping family. [1:3.]

For the second time in two weeks, the Soviet Union has entered the United States grain market for sizable purchases, the Department of Agriculture said. The latest transaction involves 177 million bushels of corn and 51 million of barley. The latest purchases seem to support rumors of a drought in the Soviet Union. [1:4.]

National

A Federal grand jury in New Orleans indicted the Bunge Corporation, of New York, one of the world's largest grain companies, and 13 present and former employees on charges of conspiracy to steal grain by shortweighting shipments and conspiracy to cover up the thefts. [1:3.]

Administration sources said that Congress would receive in a few days a second, modified plan for raising the price of domestic crude oil. The House is expected to reject today President Ford's plan of last year that would let prices rise over a period of 30 months to $13.50 a barrel, a ceiling that Mr. Ford would put on some of the crude oil now under a price limit. [1:5-6.]

President Ford personally apologized to the family of Frank R. Olson who is said to have killed himself after he was given a dose of LSD by Central Intelligence Agency agents in 1953. It was announced afterward that Mr. Ford had told the Olsons he would make available information on the case and have the Attorney General meet with their legal representatives "to discuss the claims they wish to assert against the C.I.A. by reason of Dr. Olson's death." [1:1.]

Metropolitan

Bonds of the Municipal Assistance Corporation dropped sharply in price on the first day of public trading, indicating that the agency may have to pay even higher interest rates to raise an additional $2-billion needed by the city this summer. Meanwhile, the Office of Collective Bargaining ruled that Mayor Beame had violated a union contract when he unilaterally canceled shortened summer work hours for 100,000 city workers last week. [1:8.]

In the first of three hearings on political influence in the nursing-home industry, it was disclosed that T. Norman Hund, the chief of staff to two Governors, Nelson A. Rockefeller and Malcolm Wilson, had assisted in a plan to move retarded children from Willowbrook State School to a nursing home built by Bernard Bergman after he had been told that the home was unsuitable for use as a health-care facility. [1:7.]

Record rains and the heaviest floods in 20 years inundated sections of Trenton, serving Amtrak and Penn Central rail service along the Northeast Corridor, the country's busiest train route. The disruption was expected to last for days. New York City's rail links to Philadelphia, Washington and most points in the South and Middle West were also cut off. [1:5-6.]
