

News Summary

NYTimes

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1977 SEP 12 1977

International

A plan for the West Bank area, now held by Israel, is scheduled for presentation by Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan in Washington next week. It would give Palestinian Arabs a large measure of internal autonomy while Israeli forces would maintain strategic installations. It assumes that since no territorial Israeli-Arab agreement is in sight, a practical arrangement for both sides to live together should be tried. [Page 1, Column. 6.]

The world economy is "unsatisfactory," said the International Monetary Fund in the gloomiest analysis in recent months. Rising unemployment, "subnormal growth" and widespread inflation that imposed both monetary and fiscal restraints left "little room for maneuver," the world's superlending agency said in a report to its more than 120 member countries. [1:5.]

Coverage of African countries, both black and white is increasingly restricted for foreign correspondents, with Nigeria having expelled all but one resident Western correspondent. A Tanzanian spokesman has observed that many Western reporters come to developing countries with "a useless frame of reference" because they cannot compare conditions with those of a few years earlier. [1:4.]

National

The nation's fuel bill could be raised by $550 million to $610 million under the cargo preference bill supported by the Administration, the General Accounting Office estimated in a long-awaited report. The estimate is more than five times the figures given by the Administration last July and much higher than the G.A.O. had estimated in an interim report in July. The agency then said that the cost of the bill, which would require that 9.5 percent of the nation's imported oil be transported in United States-flag ships, could boost the cost of oil by at least $240 million a year. [1:1.]

No change will be made by President Carter in the general tenor of the Justice Department's legal brief in a landmark civil rights case involving Allan Bakke, White House officials said. Mr. Carter, though, may suggest some "substantive" changes in the wording. Mr. Bakke, a white, charged in a suit that he was unconstitutionally discriminated against when he was denied admission to the medical school at the University of California at Davis when a number of less qualified blacks, Chicanos and Asian-Americans were admitted under a special quota system. In its brief, to be filed with the Supreme Court this week, the Justice Department contends that a quota system for minorities should be found unconstitutional. [1:4.]

Bert Lance's resignation was urged by Margaret Costanza, President Carter's assistant for public affairs. She was the first White House staff member to ask publicly that the budget director quit. In a television interview, Miss Costanza said that controversy surrounding Mr. Lance's financial affairs has "pre-occupied" both Mr. Lance and Mr. Carter. [1:5-6.]

A "national family policy" has been proposed by the Carnegie Council on Children to guarantee a job for every family's breadwinner and to assure that no child need be raised in poverty. This would be done by replacing the existing welfare structure with a system of refundable tax credits that would establish a basis for every family's income. The tax credits would be tied to a radical simplification of the Federal income tax. The council arrived at its recommendations through a five-year study of how public programs affect the family. [1:2-3.]

Metropolitan

Representative Herman Badillo will support Representative Edward I. Koch's candidacy for Mayor of New York City, according to Mr. Koch's campaign aides. Mr. Badillo held separate meetings with Mr. Koch and Mario M. Cuomo, the candidate's opponent in next Monday's primary runoff. Mr. Badillo is expected to announce his endorsement today. His backing is expected to strengthen Mr. Koch's election prospects in the Hispanic community, which voted overwhelmingly for Mr. Badillo in last week's primary. [1:2.]

Mario M. Cuomo, campaigning in Harlem for the Democratic runoff for Mayor, denounced Mr. Koch's advocacy of the death penalty. Sptaking from the guest pulpit of the United Presbyterian Church of The Master at 122d Street and Morningside Avenue, Mr. Cuomo declared, "Capital punishment is largely irrelevant to the working of the Mayor's office. It is a wrong issue, but it has been raised." He and his wife participated later in an Afro-American Day Parade. [1:3.]

Jonathan L. Goldstein has agreed to resign as United States Attorney for New Jersey, according to Senator Harrison Williams of New Jersey. Mr. Williams said that President Carter would nominate Robert Del Tufo, director of New Jersey's Division of Criminal Justice, to replace Mr. Goldstein, who would not confirm Mr. William's announcement. He scheduled a news conference for today. [2:3-4.]

Business/Finance

Loans larger than 80 percent of the value of two-family dwellings, which are in a high-risk category, would be included in a "major policy change" in the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's regulations on the mortgage lending operations of saving and loan institutions. At present, these institutions can make 80 to 90 percent loans only on one-family homes. [51:1.]

New attention is being given by the Government and industry to a 35-year-old engine design that might economize on fuel and control air pollution. The engine, built around a direct-injection, stratified charge mechanism, was developed by Texaco and tested for many years in cars and Army jeeps. Its backers say that it could reduce the nation's oil demand by more than 20 percent. [51:2-4.]

Index

International

Britons' wedding spares the pomp but abounds in circumstance	2
The kidnapping makes Bonn gloomier than ever	3
Bonn exchanges messages with industrialist's kidnappers	3
Pinochet rejects any changes in authoritarian rule	5
Catalans stage a huge rally	6
World News Briefs	11

Government/Politics

Race an important issue in Detroit primary	18
Lawsuits disclose aides' struggle over access to Howard Hughes	25
O'Dwyer counts on former rivals for victory	39
Goodman contends managerial skill qualifies him	40
Strategists for Koch and Cuomo seek party-leader endorsements	41
Mrs. Abzug, Sutton and Badillo remind of constituency power	41
State overseer predicts fiscal storms for next New York City Mayor	65

General

400 newsmen alleged to have aided C.I.A.	13
Around the Nation	18
Democratic Party commission moves to shorten primary season	18
Two youths shot in San Francisco's Chinatown gang war	18
Political feminists end convention with new drive for E.R.A.	18
B-1 supervisor slated for energy post	19
Metropolitan Briefs	37
2 seized for holding widow a captive	37
10,000 people march in African-American Day Parade in Harlem	37
Comptroller says parking lots profit at New York City's expense	37

Industry/Labor

Small towns sue U.S. for public works jobs money	29
--	----

Education/Welfare

Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute to build on N.Y.U. campus	26
---	----

Religion

Orthodoxy's rising power is transforming three branches of Jewry	14
--	----

Amusements/Arts

"Attachments," a novel by Judith Rossner, is reviewed	31
Funkadelic Band gives a mixed performance at Garden	41
Red Richards, jazz pianist, leads trio at Crawdaddy	42
At 85, Alfred Knopf looks back on life and letters	42
Schenly plays brilliant Brahms as Avery Fisher winner	42
Burton Greene brings his jazz style back from exile	43
Mexico's "surround" concert hall gets an "A" in acoustics	43
Three shows make TV debuts	66

Family/Style

Boys Town becomes a "suburb"	38
Putting in a good word for the swordfish	38
The Tutankhamen spirit runs wild in jewelry	38

Obituaries

William Magruder, pilot and designer headed SST project	36
Storer B. Lunt, former head of W. W. Norton & Company	36
Henry F. Fischbach, head of major electrical concern	36

Business/Finance

Hyatt accuses ex-president of misusing company funds	51
Marketing war on TV sets heating up	51
Page Page
Advertising News 56 Market Place ...	52

Sports

Sunday events fill Newport time before cup final begins	44
Vilas beats Connors in 4 sets for U.S. Open tennis title	45
Yanks lose, 6-4, to Jays after 4-3 victory; lead cut to 1½	45
Giants lose by 27-21, but find No. 1 passer in Golsteyn	45

Quotation of the Day

"The facts of family life have not been understood in this country, nor taken into account by policymakers."
—Kenneth Keniston, chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children, which is proposing a sweeping "national family policy." [54:1.]

Andretti wins Italian Grand Prix; Lauda nears title	46
Injury to Cavanaugh dashes hopes of Pitt football team	47
Rice's grand slam keeps Red Sox going with 6-2 triumph	48
Mets set back Cubs, 7-3, and foil Reuschel's bid for 20th	49
Morgan beats Elder by 5 shots in $200,000 B. C. open golf	50
U.S. captures soccer tournament on Randalls Island	50

Features/Notes

Going Out Guide	41
Man in the News: Guillermo Vilas, U.S. Open tennis champion	46

News Analysis

Andrew H. Malcolm on Seoul's dilemma in Park bribe case	9
Frank Lynn on Democratic Party split	40
Oil glut created by producers expected to persist	51

Editorials/Comment

Editorials and Letters	32
Anthony Lewis on the wide implications of the Bakke case	33
William Safire: questions for Mr. Carter	33
A Ugandan offers a tale of arrest and release	33

CORRECTION

It was incorrectly reported in The New York Times Sept. 1 that the Queens Democratic organization had initiated a legal challenge to Maurice H. Nadjari as the Republican candidate for District Attorney in last Thursday's primary. The challenge had been made by Patrick Beary, an enrolled member of the Republican party.