Jacqueline Onassis negotiated a settlement with her late husband's daughter. Christina, Miss Onassis's friends report, under which she will receive $20 million in return for abandoning all further claims to Aristotle Onassis's estate. Christina Onassis was said to have agreed to the settlement because she was eager to cut all ties to her stepmother and because she was advised that Mrs. Onassis would not consider anything less than $20 million without pressing her claims in court. [Page 1, Columns 5-6.]

President Carter told Moshe Dayan, the Foreign Minister of Israel, that if there was to be a lasting Middle East settlement it was important for Israel and the Arab states to show "courageous leadership" and to make compromises. After their meeting, a White House statement issued with Israeli concurrence acknowledged that major gaps remained between Israel and the United States on such matters as Palestinian representation at a renewed Geneva peace conference and possible American dealings with the Palestine Liberation Organization. [12:3-6.]

Minority group members got a strong endorsement from the Carter Administration that they may constitutionally receive special consideration in university admissions, but the difficult question of whether specific racial quotas may be used to achieve that special consideration was avoided. The Administration's position was stated in a Justice Department brief filed with the Supreme Court. It modified an earlier draft, which explicitly argued against such quotas. [1:1-2.]

In the hetarings on Bert Lance, Congressional staff members said he misled them, before his confirmation as budget director, about financial problems at his Georgia bank. The staff members testified at a continuation of the hearings into Mr. Lance's financial affairs. It was clear from the testimony that neither the staff nor the members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee had vigorously investigated his background. [1:2.]

The C.I.A.'s testing of LSD-25 and other psychochemicals on unsuspecting subjects was the greatest potential abuse of governmental authority or medical ethics, a Senate subcommittee has con-cluded, in the agency's highly secretive and long-running drug-testing program in which mind control was an objective. An unusual relationship between the C.I.A. and a senior narcotics official is among new details that have been learned about the drug-testing projects. [1:1-2.]

Major production operations of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will be transferred from Youngstown, Ohio, to its Indiana Harbor plant near Chicago and the company's headquarters will follow "in the near future,"
R. C. Rieder, the company's chairman said. About 5,000 Youngstown employees will be laid off in the shift to Indiana Harbor, [1:4.]

The biggest fuel savers among the 1978 model cars are foreign and dieselengine cars, the Environmental Protection Agency said in its annual report on mileage figures. Critics have said that the figures do not reflect the actual road performance of the auto-mobiles tested. Douglas M. Costle, the E.P.A.'s administrator, conceded that the figures could not tell a car buyer what he could expect in gasoline mile-age, but that they could give good indication of the relative performance of the tested cars. [18:3.]

The voter turnout in New York's Democratic mayoral runoff was reported to be lighter than the record of 910,000 voters-45 percent of those eligiblein the Sept. 8 primary. The voters in the runoff were choosing between the two top finishers in the seven-man primary-52-year-old Edward I. Koch and Mario M. Cuomo, 45. Democrats were also choosing a nominee for City Council President. [1:6.]

Setback for New York: A long-awaited public offering of New York City shortterm notes was hindered when it became known that the safeguards the city had wanted to accompany the sale would require action by the State Legislature. The Legislature is in re-cess, but could conceivably convene this fal to act on certain guarantees for repayment of the notes. City officials believed this was unlikely. [1:5.]

The Port Authority was rebuked by the chief judge of a Federal appeals court for the Authority's 18-month delay on a decision setting noise standards the Concorde SST would have to meet to be able to use Kennedy International Airport. [1:4.]

Business/Finance

Housing starts at an annual rate of 2.02 million in August were one of the strongest segments of a softening economy. This was indicated by figures released by the Commerce Department. August housing starts were down slightly from the July rate of nearly 2.08 million, but still were 32 percent above the rate of 1.53 million in August 1976. A rise in building permits issued for future housing construction was also a good augury for the industry. [57:5-6.]

R. H. Macy & Co. will close its Jamaica, Queens, branch. It announced that the lease would not be renewed when it expires Nov. 1. The branch was opened in 1947 at 89-22 165th Street and has been one of the principal stores in the Jamaica Avenue shopping district. [57:4.]

Stock prices fell to their lowest levels in 20 months, bringing down the Dow Jones industrial average 5.29 points to 851.52. The average hadn't been that badly off since Dec. 23, 1975, when it closed at 843.75. The average has lost about 150 points this year. Yesterday's selling pressure was attributed by analysts to a decline in industrial production in August. [57:1-2.]
