

Skolnick back, weary and broke

Sherman Skolnick, who "disappeared" Monday and later in the week turned up in Canada, said he returned to Chicago because "I was nearly exhausted and my money ran out."

Skolnick held a press conference Sunday in front of the Dirksen Federal Building, at which he claimed FBI agents had pursued him across the border to Ontario.

Skolnick said the FBI agents wanted documents he claims to have obtained from the Dec. 8 plane crash near Midway, which Skolnick claims bear on the Watergate bugging case.

He said when he returned from Canada customs agents seized an undeveloped roll of film, which he said he "ripped off" from the plane wreckage.
