Duplicate-don't return. Sending so you can check for editing. If it appears in our local paper, I'll compare.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

THE WASHINGTON POST

Tuesday, April 17, 1973

atergate Payment Allegation

By Jack Anderson

In secret testimony before the grand jury, Watergate defendant James McCord has confided that his co-conspirator. Howard Hunt, last July feared the President's campaign chiefs were abandoning them and wrote a three-page letter demanding "to contact someone in the White House."

Thereafter, money allegedly was delivered to Hunt's attorney, William O. Bittman, for distribution to the defendants. Mrs. Hunt, acting as the courier, arranged to meet McCord at various places and slip him cash payments. McCord testified that he received around $45,000 after the Watergate break-in for "salary" and legal expenses.

The grand jury is trying to track down who authorized the payments and whether the money was intended to buy the defendants' silence. Brib-ery to obstruct justice, of course, is a serious federal violation

As McCord related it to the grand jury, he received phone call around July 20 from Hunt. "He asked me," said McCord, "to go to a pay phone away from the house,

'Afraid We Might Talk'

"He felt the Committee to his, words.

"And he said that he was gong to do, well, he said words to the effect that he was going to the effect that he was going be making an accounting to to now assume a leadership Mr. Bittman for it." McCord also talked to her about legal mittee." McCord said he, too, felt "they were more interested in keeping us in jail than they were in getting us to keep quiet." felt "they were more interested in keeping us in jail than they were in getting us out, because they were afraid we might talk." McCord later learned from Mrs. Hunt that her husband had written a three-page letter which was read to the campaign committee's attorney Kenneth W. Parkinson. Re-ord: "She said McCord: counted said that when Bittman read the letter to Parkinson that Hunt wanted to contact someone in the White House, Parkinson said, 'Give us a week.' And Hunt came back and said, 'No you get two days.

"So they said, 'Okay. Something will be worked out in a couple of days.' And that And that something, it appeared to me. had to do with a contact and it also had something to do with the funding for the defendants

Not long afterward, Hunt (using Hunt, using the code name preted the conversation, called to arrange the "essentially there wasn't going first transfer of funds. "I went to be any more money unless over to her car and she gave you fellows agree to plead me an envelope and she said, "This is the payment for your clemency at a later time and in getting money to the de-Re-elect the President (was) me an envelope and she said, guilty and take executive trying to do him in and to do 'This is the payment for your us in for good and to put us salary for five months, begin-away and abandon us. This ning in July through whatever He quoted her as saying, almost his exact it is I think it was November ...

"I asked her if she wanted a receipt and she said, no, it was not necessary, that she would

Executive Clemency'

Still later, Hunt brought up the same question with him directly. Testified McCord: "(Hunt) said, 'we have legal fee money for you.' And said, 'What goes along with it?' . . . He put it this way, Everybody's naturally interested in knowing whether you're going to keep quiet.'' a maneuver to keep him quiet until the election, so he put pff Hunt until Nov. 7. Then he decided "to go ahead and take the legal fee money." But he refused to be bound if the legal fees were offered "as a weapon to keep us from saying anything."

to be any more money unless

"They want to know if more than one year is okay with you . . . staying in jail more than one year, and then executive clemency." McCord turned down the deal saying he was going to plead not guilty and fight the case. "And she repeated this to me three more times," he recalled, "and it was in the context of Well, I'm not sure there're wins to the context of the limit was in the limit was in the limit was in the limit was sure than the limit was sure that was not sure they're going to give you any more money
"The meaning w

you any more money'...
"The meaning was very clear, that 'Unless you agree to go along with this, you can forget about any further legal fee money, or any further salary continuance.' Footnote: After the break-in squad was arrested inside Democratic Party Headquarters, McCord testified, the higher-ups first wanted to blame it on the CIA. But nei-McCord felt this was merely ther Hunt nor McCord would go along with that cover story. Then there was talk about blaming the whole affair on Gordon Liddy, the Watergate ringleader. McCord quoted Mrs. Hunt as saying she had been told "that there were now plans to charge Liddy. Some type of plans was under The question came up again way to charge Liddy stole the way to charge Liddy stole the money and bribed Hunt and McCord to perform the opera-McCord to perform the opera-tion. I said, 'Well, you can pass the word that I won't stand for that . . . it's not true. fendants.

© 1973, United Feature Syndicate