A List of Officials Accused by Magruder

By DAVID E. ROSENBAUM

Special to The New York Times WASHINGTON, June 14 Roles in the planning of the Watergate burglary and the subsequent cover-up were attributed to the following high case direct evidence of Mr. Ehrlich-direct evidence of Mr. Ehrlichman's involvement.

John N. Mitchell, campaign director until July 1, 1972 — Haldeman to read. He read the Watergate wiretap transcript.

Mr. Mitchell gave final approval to the plans for the burglary, having rejected two borader espionabr proposals. He helped concococt the coverup story and rejected Mr. Magruder's offer to take blame for the burglary.

Mr. Dean Mr. Dean participated in early meetings at which the burglary was planned. He played the key role in developing and maintaining treausrer — he knew that a McCord out of jail.

Richard G. Kleindians, former attorney general — he refused to let James W. McCord Jr., one of the conspirators, out of jail the day after the burglary.

Clark MacGregor, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the Watergate wiretap transcript.

G. Gordon Liddy, counsel to the re-election committee—he was the author of the plans for the burglary.

Maurice H. Stans, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the Watergate wiretap transcript.

Clark MacGregor, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the Watergate wiretap transcript.

Maurice H. Stans, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the was lied to about the watergate wiretap transcript.

Maurice H. Stans, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the was lied to about the watergate operation, although not know the true story during the campaign.

Powell Moore, campaign transcript.

Haldeman to read. He read the fused the read the was toled to let James W. McCord out of jail the day after the burglary.

Clark MacGregor, campaign director after July 1, 1972—He was lied to about the was lie the cover-up. He had a pipe-line to the prosecutors and was able to tell Mr. Magruder in August that Mr. Magruder

White House and Nixon campaign officials today by Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy campaign director:

H. R. HALDEMAN, former White House chief of staff—Mr. Haldeman's office received documents detailing the burglary plans, although Mr.Magruder said he did not know whether Mr. Haldeman saw them. Mr.

Charles W. Colson, President-Charles W. Colson urged in early 1972 that espionage plans be expedited and spoke of the need to gather derogatory material about Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic national chairman. Mr. Magruder said he did not know that Mr. Colson had been aware of the actual burglary or the cover-up. Charles W. Colson, Presidentactual burglary or the cover-up.

the cover-up. He prepared sum-had given large sums of money to Liddy, but he did not know what was being hidden.

Herbert W. Kalmbach, Mr. Nixon's personal attorney-he raised the money to pay defendants in the Watergate trial.

Robert C. Mardian, political coordinator—he participated in meetings during which the cover-up story was constructed. Frederick C. LaRue, assistant to Mr. Mitchell—he attended meetings at which the burglary was planned and also those at which the cover-up said he did not know whether Mr. Haldeman saw them. Mr. Haldeman knew the full Watergate story in mid-January and was planning to commit perjury at the Watergate trial. JOHN D. EHRLICHMAN, former chief White House domestic adviser—Mr. Magruder said he assumed at the time the plans were being made and the cover-up plotted that John W. Dean 3d, the ousted White House councel, was receiving instructions from Mr. Ehrlichman, but Mr. Magruder has no direct evidence of Mr. Ehrlichtman, but Mr. Magruder has no direct evidence of Mr. Ehrlichtman, but Mr. Magruder has no direct evidence of Mr. Ehrlichtman actual burglary or the cover-up. Mr. Magruder himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself before take full blame for the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he helped plan the burglary and devised the cover-up. He perjured himself — he lelection committee lawyer — Mr. Magruder gave him a full and accurate account of the burglary in early July, 1972. Subsequently, however, Mr. Parkinson was told that the original account was not accurate and that the cover-up story was true.

Herbert L. Porter, campaign saked by Mr. Magruder to lie at the Watergate trial, and he did so.

Richard G. Kleindi. 15 for-

Richard G. Kleinding

6-15-73 NJI