

AUG 24 1973
A 54 24.73

NOV. 22, 1973

On the tenth anniversary of John Kennedy's death, six people are told they will die and they know why...

They don't know why...

Then the first person on the list is killed.

This is the startling premise of this major novel that builds in excitement and suspense as George Williams, a crack investigator for the Justice Department and one of those on the list, sets out to track down the anonymous killer. As the action accelerates, the two men find themselves locked in a deadly game of wits to determine who will survive as ...
LAST MAN AT ARLINGTON.

$5.95 / October, 1973

DI MONA

- Paperback rights sold to Dell
- Film rights sold to Columbia Pictures
- TV rights sold to NBC
- Screenplay rights sold to Warner Bros.
- Audio rights sold to Random House
- Foreign rights sold to various publishers
- Serial rights sold to Dell
- Merchandise rights sold to various companies
- Stage rights sold to various theaters
- Musical rights sold to various composers
- Option on film rights sold to Warner Bros.
- Option on TV rights sold to NBC
- Option on audio rights sold to Random House
- Option on foreign rights sold to various publishers
- Option on serial rights sold to Dell
- Option on merchandise rights sold to various companies
- Option on stage rights sold to various theaters
- Option on musical rights sold to various composers

ARTHUR WEISS BOOKS, INC.
Publishing Fewer Books Better
201 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003
Distributed by E.P. Dutton & Co., Inc.