Sinatra: A Word

for Agnew
OCT 1 2 1973

Entertainer Frank Sinatra, a frequent companion of and host to former Vice President Spiro Agnew, yesterday released a brief statement on Agnew's resignation.

"As a citizen who loved America and as a good friend of Mr. Agnew, this indeed is a sad day . . . It takes great courage to pursue the route he has chosen and I have every hope that, in the months and years to come, his action will result in a greater public understanding of his feelings and position as 'the man in the arena,'" Sinatra said.

Sinatra issued the statement through an attorney in California.
