Republican Advice: Presidential Penance

penance by the President. tol Hill's deeply felt need for public is total White House rejection of Capitenants and congressional Republicans logue between President Nixon's lieu-Dooming the melancholy private diasomehow confront Congress, perhaps tial (and pro-Nixon) Republican senaexpiation and contrition. One influenas a committee witness, with a show of gressional demands that Mr. Nixon his files to save his presidency. But cern how much Mr. Nixon shall open ing publicly scourged, he makes public murder of St. Thomas A. Becket by be-King of England who atoned for the less like Henry II, the 12th century tor feels Mr. Nixon cannot survive un these talks founder over unstated con-Current negotiations ostensibly con ers and the White House over disclomake considerably less humiliating noring advice from his own staff to and all his advisers. Indeed, he is igsure of tape recordings and docuare reached between Republican lead gestures. Thus, whatever agreements ments, the basic gap will remain un-That is anathema to the President

> Mr. Nixon's resignation will rise. bridged and Republican sentiment for his colleagues say privately in the Rewas saying in public what almost all publican cloakroom. fear about his 1974 re-election camthe President Monday as reflecting Mr. Nixon's aides interpreted conservamurkier today than in calmer times. sentiment on Capitol Hill is even paign in Colorado. In truth, Dominick tive Sen. Peter Dominick's criticism of The White House's understanding of

of the President's resignation. enth-hour efforts to avoid the necessity mendations from Capitol Hill are elevonce Rep. Gerald Ford is confirmed as not uttered a single word critical of Vice President. The barrage of recom-Mr. Nixon say privately he must resign Republican senators who still have on Watergate. Less sweeping requests closure not only of tape recordings but conservative and a Nixon loyalist, recently wrote the President a remarka-White House by Senate Republican of all presidential documents bearing to save himself — stressing public disble letter outlining the steps necessary are now being negotiated with the Sen. William Brock of Tennessee, a

But tapes and documents will not

White House the President must testify because he is "at the end of the road" and no other course remains.

The avowed purpose of calling Mr. committee. One Republican leader in Congress, in public a total supporter of Mr. Nixon, is privately telling the - perhaps by the Senate Watergate terrogation from his legislative peers truly satisfy Congress. Many Republi cans feel the President should face in tions of Watergate. Beyond the avowed purpose, however, is the Henry II syndrome: the feeling Mr. Nixon can survive only by humbling himself. It is here where all hopes sink of agree-Nixon to testify: to probe inconsistencies in Mr. Nixon's confusing explanament between the President and congressional Republicans.

"If the President has to go up to the Hill, groveling, on his hands and knees, I'd rather see him impeached," dle-level assistant put it this way: "Are we going to go out crawling on our bellies or are we going to go out one senior Nixon aide told us. A mid-ed by Richard M. Nixon-are unaltersoft-liners in the White House context, Naturally, then, the hard-liners—headswinging?"

Those two presidential assistants are mended by his own staff. ably opposed to any act of penance ably more moderate gestures recomndeed, the President ignores consider-> such as Sen. Brock's, naturally go unsent his side of the Watergate story. answered. liner, is getting nowhere in urging one final try by Mr. Nixon to publicly preand House Republicans have been Earnest suggestions from Capitol Hill, weeks. One adviser, usually a hardgathering dust in the Oval Office for Staff proposals for a frank, private discussion of Watergate with Senate ergy crisis. It does explain Press Secretary Ron Ziegler's reference to the Watergate "foolishness," fully reflecting Mr. Nixon's own view. Monday in order to deal with the enexplain cancellation of Mr. Nixon's meeting with his Watergate lawyers matters is sounding again. That may getting Watergate and turning to other that Mr. Nixon can save himself by for-Rather, the old White House refrain even as Republican support grows thinner by the day. ness, much less resigning as President, continued refusal to display any weak-Nixon's congressional supporters are down to a precious few, not much has "cool it." It also shows that while Mr. a repudiation of Sen. Barry Goldwater's plea last Sunday that everybody In the Senate Republican cloakroom, Ziegler's "foolishness" was considered short run, that promises Mr. Nixon's changed at the White House. For the @ 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc.