WXPost Nov 1 8 1973 Hill Talks May Hurt 1 8 1973 President

By George Lardner Jr. Washington Post Staff Writer

President Nixon's whirlwind week of meetings with congressional Republicans over the scandals laid to the White House could come back to haunt him.

That at least is the view of Rep. Charles W. Whalen (R. Ohio) who said that Mr. Nix-Whalen (R. Ohio) who said that Mr. Nixon's explanations at times failed to deal with the questions put to him in the closed sessions and at times seemed to contradict what is already public record, including testiment given under eath mony given under oath.

Voicing frustration with the session he attended last week, Whalen said it reminded him of a piano-playing exercise.

"My wife plays the piano," "My wife plays the plane, he said, "and I guess there's this exercise called 'fingering the plane.' You just run your fingers over the keyboard without hitting the keys.

"That's what we've been doing this week—fingering the keys without really hitting them."

Whalen based his remarks on a breakfast session he attended with 27 other House Republicans Friday morning—Mr. Nixon's final one of the week with members of Congress in what White House aides have called a determined campaign "to set the record straight."

At the Friday session, however, according to reports from Whalen and others, Mr. Nixon seemed to be contradicreports ting the testimony under oath that former Attorney General John N. Mitchell gave in 1972 about dealings involving the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

Whalen, who took notes at the meeting, said the President was asked about his or-

See NIXON, A14, Col. 1

Nixon's Meetings Could Haunt Him, Rep. Whalen Feels NIXON, From A1 Pering then-Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Klein Nixon's Meetings Work for one of the big conglomerate's subsidiaries. "The President has never talked to me about any anti-the specific facts of the appeal cere subsequently explained him in greater detail."

At another point during the Friday breakfast session, the President was asked by Rep.

ell who told him Kleindienst will quit" u he appeal were pursued.

Whalen, who said his notes account of Cox's ouster on Saturday, Oct. 20:
"Cox changed [his] mind on Friday night because of lack of confidence in Stennis. We sivestifure" of some of ITT's didn't know until Saturday. divestiture" of some of ITT's didn't know until Saturday ioldings.

This, Mr. Nixon reportedly added, was precisely what hapformed White House lawyer charles Alan Wright—in a letter delivered that Friday her law firm had done legal fore, on Oct. 18.

reing then-Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Klein-Henst in April of 1971 to drop the court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and are court appeal of the court appeal of the court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and the court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and the court appeal of the court appeal of an U.S. and the court appeal of an

The President indicated to the House Republicans that he explanation came from ken his word about the Water-Aktorney General Mitchell who told him that ing the dismission, the President was asked by Rep. Vernon W. Thomson of Wisconsin whether he hadn't broken his word about the Water-Bell who told him that ing the dismission between the control of the dismission of the dismission between the control of the dismission of the control of the c that ing the dismissal last month of unless Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox he'd changed his mind."

opoints," he was reported as lecter delivered that Friday morning, Oct. 19—that he morning, Oct. 19—that he could not conscientiously agree" to the demands that Wright had put to him over the rlaw firm had done legal for an Oct. 18